UP-STATE DEMOCRATS WANT HIM TO REORGANIZE PARTY.

It's Hoped That The Bronx Line Will Be Recognized No Longer-Harrison Suggested for Chairman-Conditions in the Party Beat Herrick, Says McCabe.

ALBANT, Dec. 10.-The reorganization of the New York Democracy under the State leadership of Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall is advocated by a number of up-State county Democratic leaders who heretofore always have followed the political fortunes of David B. Hill. Among those who favor such a course are State Committeeman Patrick E. McCabe of Albany. State Committeeman Charles F. Hartigan of Auburn, the editor of the Auburn Bulletin; and Melvin Z. Haven, who inherited the political fortunes of ex-Mayor James E. McGuire of Syracuse and who now has charge of the Albany headquarters of the Democratic State committee established by Mr. Hill.

Mr. Haven was the campaign manager of Mr. McGuire in the latter's successful campaigns when he was elected Mayor of Syracuse. Those leaders insist that hereafter the up-State Democracy shall not be organized as against Tammany for the purpose of controlling either the State committee or the State conventions, but that the party in the State shall be reorganized without any recognition of the Bronx line and with a view of giving full for credit to Tammany Chieftain Murphy the great work he has accomplished.

It has been suggested that Mr. Murphy might desire to name Francis Burton Harrison, the recent Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, as chairman of the Democratic State committee. It is pointed out that Mr. Harrison is a good organizer and campaigner, and that as chairman of the State committee he could do much to build up the party organization up the State by the time the next Gubernatorial campaign rolls around in 1906.

These suggestions were brought out today through the announcement in the morning papers that William F. Sheehan was being pressed for the State leadership to succeed David B. Hill upon the latter's announced retirement on Jan. 1.

"I am in favor," said State Committeeman McCabe to-day, "of a meeting of the State committee in January so that there can be no doubt from the outset after Mr. Hill's retirement as to who will be the State leader. The question should be settled in January. I have a vote on that question and I shall be glad to have it registered in favor of Mr. Murphy. The party is now where it can afford to do the thing that is right and do it because it is right.

"There was a lack of confidence on the part of the people in our party during the last campaign and a mysterious condition existed in national affairs. Judge D-Cady Herrick would have been elected Governor beyond any question had it not been for the many embarrassing conditions with which he was surrounded in his own party.

"How do you explain Mr. Douglas's victory in Massachusetts? Mr. Douglas managed his canvass himself and managed It upon the simple basis of things-man to man-fair and square treatment of men and affairs. His humanity was known and felt from one end of the State to the other. He was not embarrassed there, as Judge Herrick was here."

"Do you think Mr. Murphy has demonstrated the capacity and fitness necessary for a State leader?"

"I don't know what your notion of fitness is, but if you mean he hasn't the attainments that some men have. I guess you are right. But he knows men; he knows human nature; he is one of the plain people. who has earned his leadership because his need is clear and his heart is right. Intrigue is the worst and frankness the best point in politics, and Mr. Murphy knows that as well as anybody. Politics is largely a matter of judgment, a question of knowing the people, and who knows the people like one of them?

It is no doubt "a wonder to some folk how Mr. Murphy conducts the Democratic affairs of the great city of New York. It is because of his heart, head and courage. He knows the right thing, has common sense, is a full man, and after all are not these the proof of leadership?"

*Is Senator Hill going to retire from politics in January?

"Yes. If he were not, the question of leadership would not be up. A great many members of the State committee up the State would follow Senator Hill who will not follow Mr. Sheehan. We need a meeting of the State committee to settle this question and should have it at once. There must be no more organization of the up-State against down-State Democrats. The proper thing to do is for up-State Democrats to organize with, not against, the Democrats below the Bronx."

"I read the article concerning the leadership of the party," said Mr. Haven. "It states that the State committee will not meet in two years. I don't understand how this has been determined. It can meet at any time and settle the question of the eadership in its own way. Personally, I favor an early meeting; also, a reorganization, which must be by the committee, however, and not by any few self-constituted authorities who are not even members of the committee.

"As to the executive committee, the socalled up-State organization committee and other sub-committees appointed for campaign purposes, they are no longer in existence; they ceased to exist at the close of the campaign. We have too vivid a recollection of the work of the upState organization committee in particular to desire its continuance. 'The Democracy has work before it if it hopes to succeed. It can succeed, but it must work in accord with the principles of Democracy. The majority must rule. If a majority of the State committee desires the programme mapped out by these gentlemen in the newspaper article mentioned, well and good. A vote of the committee will easily determine that question, and the sooner it is taken the better. Personally I am opposed to the programme and shall continue to oppose it, at least until a decision of the State committee." Charles F. Hartigan, member of the State committee from the Cayuga-Seneca district, stopped off in Albany to-day on is way home from a vacation trip to Cuba. He talked of the Democratic situation and was emphatic in his opinion that the State committee should take up at once the active management of the party organization, instead of leaving it to outsiders. The committee has not exercised its functions for some years," said Mr. Hartigan. and I believe that it should meet and reorganize, choosing officers from its present membership and be in close touch with party affairs all the time."

It will be remembered that the chair-manship of the Democratic State com-mittee was promised to Mr. Haven last April when Cord Meyer was chosen, and Mr. Haven was in had lauren for some time April when Cord Meyer was chosen, Mr. Haven was in bad humor for some time

HILL REPEATS THAT HE'S DONE. If the Party Gets Another Leader, Says

Mack, It Will Have to Grow One. David B. Hill, who came down from Albany vesterday to attend the funeral of Hugh McLaughlin, went afterward to the Hoffman House, where he met several local and Stat: leaders. Among them were Norman E. Mack and John B. Stanchfield. When Mr. Mack got through his talk with Mr. Hill he said that Mr. Hill had reiterated that he intended to retire from politics at the end of the year. It was intimated by Mr. Mack that some effort had been made by Mr. Hill's friends to induce him econsider his determination, but that Hill refused to listen.
r. Mick, in referring to the reports that there were already movements afoot to have either William F. Sheehan or D-Cady Herrick selected to succeed Mr.

D-Cady Herrick selected to succeed Mr. Hill, said:

"It is impossible to designate a leader of the State by any formal action of the State or the county committee. Mr. Hill was the leader of the party in this State, not, in an official sense, but simply because the Democrate of the State recognized him as their best counsellor and advis r. It is going to be a very difficult matter to find any one to fill his place. Supposing he does give up the titular leadership, what is to prevent me or any one else from going to him for advice? I take no stock in the reports that the new leader is to be a man who is to be appointed by the Democratic organization. There is no need, anyway, for any such action for a long time to come because there will practically be no State campaign next year and a leader who can command his party is one who grows up to the position. You can't appoint a leader."

Mr. Mack added that he thought that if Mr. Hill dropped the reins after the end of the year the details of the organization would be looked after by the chairman of the State committee. Mr. Hill himself refused to have anything to say for publication.

CURB BROKER DIES SUDDENLY. J. C. Morris Attacked by Heart Disease in Britton & Flere's Office.

J. C. Morris, a well known curb broker and former member of the Stock Exchange, fell dead yesterday morning in the offices of Britton & Fiero, Stock Exchange brokers at 25 Broad street, where he had desk room. His death was attributed to heart disease. Friends of Mr. Morris said that reports that he was hurt by the recent slump in Montreal and Boston Copper stocks and the Munroe tangle were untrue. It was asserted that Mr. Morris was in no way interested in the stocks, as he was not a speculator. He was a member of the Stock Exchange some twenty years ago, but sold his seat.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. Lucinda B. Simmons, whose father, Wheat Beals, a resident of Vermort, is said to have built the first railroad in the United States, and whose grandfather was a member of the Boston Tea Party, died last night at her home, 306 Dodd street, East Orange, N. J., aged 82 years. She was taken ill on Sunday last, the twelfth anniversary of the death of her husband, who was the Rev. George C. Simmons, a Methodist minister. She was born in Vermont and for many years lived in Fonda, N. Y. She had lived in East Orange for about two years. The railroad which the father of Mrs. Simmons built ran from Quincy, Mass., four miles out to the granite quarries where was mined the granite used in the Bunker Hill Monument. It took four years to build the line. It was constructed of wooden beams laid along the ground, on which were screwed strips of steel. Mrs. Simmons is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Wilson Barber of East Orange, and five sons: Dr. M. Herbert Simmons, city physician of Orange; the Rev. F. S. If the Quaries-Cooper Bill Isn't Passed at This Session He Will Urge It Again -Leaders in Congress Oppose Measure -The Supreme Court May Kill It

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 .- Although it has become the general opinion among the leaders in Congress that legislation at this session of Congress increasing the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission is impossible. President Roosevelt will make an effort to procure the passage of the Cooper-Quarles bill. He is very deeply interested in the subject and is of the opin-

The hostility of the leaders was shown in the hearing before Chairman Hepburn's committee on the Cooper-Quarles bill. His questions, addressed to E. P. REASONABLE FREIGHT RATES. Commissioner Prouty Says Either They or Government Ownership Must Come. CHICAGO, Dec. 10 .- "There will be either government ownership or government regulation of the railroads," declared C. A. Prouty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day. "Which it will be depends mainly on the managers of the railroads. If they do not want government ownership, they will cease their opposition to the President's plan for preventing the enforcement of rates which are inreasonable.

"I know that, individually, a great many ble railway men are convinced that there should be government supervision of rates, but officially and collectively those men will never agree to such supervision until Wall Street gives the order. Although the railroads apparently are not disposed to recognize it, there is a greater power in this country-the people. "The people to-day believe that there must be some check to the greed of the railways. Under the community of interest or joint ownership plan competition in rates between the railroads has been practically eliminated in the East and is rapidly disappearing in the West and Southwest. By various methods rates have been advanced in recent years, and if unchecked the railroads will make further advances.

*Despite the millions that were expended for betterments of all kinds, the railroads accumulated a greater surplus last year than ever before. If the cost of conducting transportation is growing less it should not be attended by an increase in rates. "Some railroad men wildly talk of 'confiscation of property' whenever there is a suggestion that they should be compelled to reduce unreasonable rates. Has not a shipper at least equal right to talk of confiscation of property when he is compelled to pay an unjust and excessive rate for transportation? A reasonable rate has been defined as one that is fair to both the railroad and the shipper, and all that it is proposed to do is to give the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to make a reasonable rate after it has been demonstrated that an unjust rate has been

JUDGE BAKER REMOVED. Firmer Hand Needed to Keep Down Crime

Charges were by Pius X. One of the Jesuit fathers of this made against Judge Baker, and they were city who is a member of the court apthoroughly investigated by agents of the

It was found that in Bernalillo county in which Albuquerque is situated, political and official affairs generally were in bad condition, that improper jury commissioners were being appointed, the selection of jurors tampered with, the Sunday law was not enforced against gambling and saloons, and that Judge Baker was not doing all in his power to remedy these evils.

It was concluded that a more vigorous and strict Judge was imperatively needed n which Albuquerque is situated, political and strict Judge was imperatively needed and his contemplated order will probably be issued early next week.

Some of the Northwestern millers are now operating under a clause of the tariff law which permits them to bring in Canadian wheat in bond, turn it into flour and export it without the payment of duty. They complain that they are obliged under this system to export not only the flour but all the by-products, such as shorts, bran and middlings. For these by-products there is little market abroad.

middlings. For these by-products there is little market abroad.

By the allowance of a drawback this difficulty will be overcome, for Secretary Shaw proposes to require the millers to pay duty on the imported wheat and then receive a rebate on the flour produced from this wheat. It is proposed to require the ultimate payment of duty only on so much of the wheat as goes into bran, shorts and middlings that are sold in the home market.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. -Solicitor-General Hoyt, on behalf of the Government, will ask the Supreme Court on Monday to advance for an early hearing the appeals of John A. Benson, Frederick A. Hyde and Henry P. Dimond, indicted in this city for participation in land frauds in Oregon and northern California.

When Benson was arrested in New York, and Hyde and Dimond in San Francisco, and were ordered removed to Washington for trial, they applied for writs of habeas corpus to secure their release. These appli-cations were denied by the Judges of the District courts, and from their actions the defendants have appealed to the Supreme
